

What will you preserve for 100 years?

In an age where AI answers every question,
this is the one only you can answer.

We design your proof of existence with a millennium perspective.

Why this question, and why now

The one question AI cannot answer

AI generates optimal answers. But it cannot decide what to preserve.

Generative AI produces research, analysis, and strategy in seconds. Yet "What will you preserve for 100 years?" can only be answered from the context of your own life. This is not an optimization problem. It is a choice of meaning.

Wealth transfer is solved. Meaning transfer remains untouched.

Estate planning, business succession, asset management — the infrastructure for transferring what you own is mature. But the story of why you leave it — the narrative that gives inheritance its purpose — cannot be designed by institutions. You need a vehicle to carry your intent across a millennium.

Proof of existence is a gift.

What you leave behind becomes a gift to someone in the future. To your family. To your community. To generations not yet born. The knowledge that "someone was truly here" becomes an anchor for a stranger in a distant future — that is the essence of proof of existence.

What is Timeless Consulting

Designing your proof of existence through dialogue with a millennium perspective

What you're buying is not a product.

It's dialogue with a person who holds a millennium perspective.

From that dialogue, TokiStorage emerges as the tangible form.

01

Dialogue with the millennium question

"What will you preserve for 100 years?" — we approach this question through intellectual frameworks spanning psychology, religion, economics, AI, and space. Your answer belongs to you alone.

02

Proof of existence design

We structure your life story, values, and messages into a "proof of existence" designed to reach a millennium into the future. Drawing from 200+ use cases to find the optimal form.

03

Quartz glass inscription

Your designed proof of existence is physically inscribed on quartz glass. No servers, no power, no institutional dependency. 1,000-year durability (theoretical). Readable with any smartphone camera.

04

Ongoing curation

A life cannot be told in a single sitting. At each milestone, we update your proof of existence. New stories added, your "millennium archive" continues to grow.

How it works

From dialogue to a millennium

01

Initial dialogue (90 min)

Centered on "What do you want to preserve for 100 years?", we listen to the story of your life. Family, work, beliefs. For many, this dialogue itself becomes a profound moment of reflection.

02

Proof of existence design

Based on our dialogue, we design the architecture of your proof of existence. What to preserve, for whom, in what form. Text, photos, audio, video — we propose the optimal media and structure.

03

Content creation & curation

Following the design, we produce your proof of existence. Where needed, we coordinate professional photography, recording, and editing. Your story, in its finest form.

04

Quartz glass inscription & delivery

The completed proof of existence is inscribed on quartz glass and delivered with a QR code. A smartphone camera is all it takes for someone 1,000 years from now to encounter your story.

Who this is for

For anyone who finds meaning in leaving something behind

Founders & CEOs

I visited Pearl Harbor with my family, carrying a plate inscribed with a voice QR code of our prayers for peace—alongside the remains of our beloved dog, Pearl. That's when it hit me: wishes that transcend time transform into something greater—love, peace, hope. I want to share that transformation with as many people as possible. Through TokiStorage, I hope to walk that journey across time together with you.

Let's start with a conversation.
